

The application of the Charter

Co-funded by the European Union. Views and opinions expressed are however those of the author(s) only and do not necessarily reflect those of the European Union or the Academy of European Law. Neither the European Union nor the granting authority can be held responsible for them.

Filippo Fontanelli, Tallinn 2024

Title VII: General provisions governing the interpretation and application of the charter (aka 'final' or 'horizontal' provisions)

Article 51: for whom the Charter tolls → field of application

Article 52: interpretation of rights

- (1) Limitations → Conditions to be met
- (2) Treaty-based limitations
- (3) Relation with the ECHR and constitutional protection
- (5) 'Rights' vs 'Principles' and Justiciability of principles
- (7) with due regard to the explanations

Article 53: level of protection: no regression (relationship with 52(3)? And with 53 ECHR?)

Article 51

Scope

1. The provisions of this Charter are addressed to the institutions and bodies of the Union with due regard for the principle of subsidiarity and to the Member States only when they are implementing Union law. They shall therefore respect the rights, observe the principles and promote the application thereof in accordance with their respective powers.
2. This Charter does not establish any new power or task for the Community or the Union, or modify powers and tasks defined by the Treaties.

Flash Quiz (Case C-710/20)

Does a provision of a national law that annuls directly – without a decision of a national court – the decision of a national court discontinuing criminal proceedings, which is, under national legislation, a final decision entailing acquittal and on the basis of which the criminal proceedings have been definitively discontinued as a result of the amnesty granted in accordance with a national law, comply with the right to a fair trial, guaranteed in Article 47 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union, and with the right not to be tried or punished twice in criminal proceedings for the same criminal offence, guaranteed in Article 50 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union and with Article 82 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union? If the answer to this question is in the negative, is the national court bound by such a provision of national law?

Let's be real

□ The Ch
States. human

- There
to co
- w

Member regulate dispensable

→

“implementing EU law”

- EU cannot tell MS how to behave on HR
- EU can control how MS deal with other EU law (i.e., act as EU agent)
- Charter cannot create obligations alone
- Charter requires OTHER EU law
  - ▣ No EU law, no Charter

The shadow principle

Flash Quiz (Case C-548/15)

[If the Directive does not apply, must the principle of non-discrimination on the grounds of age, as a general principle of EU law, be applied to a tax concession on the basis of which training expenditure is only deductible under certain circumstances, even when that concession falls outside the material scope of Directive 2000/78/EC and when that arrangement does not implement EU law?

It is not the C

51

In those circumstances the Kammarrätten i Stockholm (Administrative Court of Appeal of Stockholm, Sweden) decided to stay the proceedings and to refer to the Court the following questions for a preliminary ruling:

'(1) Is a general obligation to retain traffic data covering all persons, all means of electronic communication and all traffic data without any distinctions, limitations or exceptions for the purpose of combating crime ... compatible with Article 15(1) of Directive 2002/58/EC, taking account of Articles 7 and 8 and Article 52(1) of the Charter?

The shortcut

What is the rule of EU law (other than the Charter) that must be applied to solve this case?

The dreadful truth

To know whether the Charter applies, one needs to know when EU law applies to domestic measures.

How do you tell whether EU law applies?

- Checking EU competences? No, MS are always obliged to respect EU law, even when they exercise reserved competences
  - ▣ Remember Sayn-Wittgenstein: even rules on titles of nobility can breach EU law.
- Not just execution, but also respect of EU law.

How do you tell whether EU law applies?

- Checking EU competences? No, mere power to pass law is not the same as EU law (that applies)
- Case C-198/13, Víctor Manuel Julian Hernández and Others v. Reino de España (Subdelegación del Gobierno de España en Alicante) and Other, EU:C:2014:2055, para. 36. (“[T]he mere fact that a national measure comes within an area in which the European Union has powers cannot bring it within the scope of EU law.”)

How do you tell whether EU law applies?

Super-easy cases:

Does the domestic measure incorporate/execute EU law?

Easy cases:

Does the outcome in the main proceedings depend on the interpretation/application of EU law?

Hard cases:

Does EU law apply to the subject-matter? (no need to be decisive, mere scope-of-application check)

The last uncomfortable truth

the Charter has never been used to indicate that domestic acts were in breach of EU law*

- Unless these were already in breach of OTHER EU law.

COPE WITH THE SCOPE

The difficult cases are those in which the other source of EU law does not preclude the domestic measure, but applies → triggering the Charter.

Example: Fransson. Art. 325 TFEU respected, but Charter as add-on standard.

The “scope”

Since the fundamental rights guaranteed by the Charter must therefore be complied with where national legislation falls within the scope of European Union law, situations cannot exist which are covered in that way by European Union law without those fundamental rights being applicable.

The applicability of European Union law entails applicability of the fundamental rights guaranteed by the Charter.

Fransson, para. 21.

Implementation formats

- comply with obligation: think of Art. 47 cases
- incorporation: transposing a Directive
- specification: Kamberaj, “in accordance with domestic law” clause
- derogation: e.g., Directive 2000/78, Art. 2.5 on public security
- exercise of discretion: Stefan, slaughter case
- general “scope”: Kucukdeveci, Dansk, Max Planck
- referral (renvoi) by domestic to EU law: Dzodzi

Specification: Kamberaj C-571 / 10

Article 11(1) of Directive 2003/109

‘Long-term residents shall enjoy equal treatment with nationals as regards: (d) social security, social assistance and social protection as defined by national law

80. when determining the social security, social assistance and social protection measures defined by their national law and subject to the principle of equal treatment enshrined in Article 11(1)(d) of Directive 2003/109, the Member States must comply with the rights and observe the principles provided for under the Charter, including those laid down in Article 34 thereof

Specification: Kamberaj C-571 / 10

Article 11(1) of Directive 2003/109

‘Long-term residents shall enjoy equal treatment with nationals as regards: (d) social security, social assistance and social protection as defined by national law

80. when determining the social security, social assistance and social protection measures defined by their national law and subject to the principle of equal treatment enshrined in Article 11(1)(d) of Directive 2003/109, the Member States must comply with the rights and observe the principles provided for under the Charter, including those laid down in Article 34 thereof

Discretion: Stefan C-329/13

Flooding caused by failure to operate locks well. Lock keeper investigated criminally. Stefan sought information on rainfall, authorities refused, to preserve integrity of criminal trial.

Article 4.2 of Directive 2003/4: exceptions

‘Member States may provide for a request for environmental information to be refused if disclosure of the information would adversely affect: (c) the course of justice, the ability of any person to receive a fair trial ...’

Discretion: Stefan C-329/13

Easy point: discretion must be exercised in compliance with Charter (as implicit in discretion clause).

Interesting point: Austria had expressly not exempted environmental info. So Stefan was right! Austrian law breaches Charter, but Austrian measure (the refusal) did not.

Discretion: Slaughter C-571/10

Regulation 1009/2009, Art. 4

“Animals shall only be killed after stunning ... in the case of animals subject to particular methods of slaughter prescribed by religious rites, the requirements of paragraph 1 shall not apply”.

Art. 26: “This Regulation shall not prevent Member States from maintaining any national rules aimed at ensuring more extensive protection of animals at the time of killing in force at the time of entry into force of this Regulation.”

Discretion: Slaughter C-571/10

Belgium required reversible stunning even for kosher slaughtering.

Scope of EU law, or expressly left out of EU law?

“in accordance with Article 51(1) of the Charter, Member States are required to respect the fundamental rights enshrined in the Charter when they are implementing that power.”

Renvoi: Dzodzi C-297/88; 197/89

Right of residence in Belgium of the spouse (of Togolese nationality) of a deceased Belgian citizen who had never made use of his freedom to work or reside in another Member State. Purely internal: no relevance of EU law.

But under Belgian law, the spouse of a Belgian national was to be treated as if he or she were a EU national. Accordingly, that court asked the Court whether Mrs Dzodzi would have the right to reside and remain in Belgium if her husband had been a national of a Member State other than Belgium.

“scope”: horizontal application of 2000/78 (and 2003/88)

Borderline cases. EU law does not have horizontal effect of Directive. But is Directive within the scope of EU law, triggering Charter?

Mangold, Kucukdevci

Ineffective application is good for marking the «scope» of EU law

Dansk (C-415/11) – “... the Law of 1990 affects the conditions regarding the dismissal of workers for the purposes of Article 3(1)(c) of Directive 2000/78. It follows that the national legislation at issue in the main proceedings falls within the scope of EU law and, accordingly, within the scope of the general principle prohibiting discrimination on grounds of age.”

Any guidance?

Checklist in Siragusa:

- Sufficient connection with EU law, mere commonality of topic is not enough
- Check certain points:
  - Does domestic law intend to implement EU law?
  - What's the nature (specific v. general) of the domestic measure?
  - Does the measure have other purposes besides implementing EU law?
  - Does EU law contain rules that govern or can affect the matter regulated domestically?
- There must be some EU law obligation to the facts of the main proceedings.
- Preserve “unity, primacy and effectiveness” of EU law.

Too remote

28

- 21 Against that background, it is clear, first of all, that there is nothing in the present case to suggest that the Regional Law was intended to implement a provision of Community law either in the sphere of agriculture or in that of the environment or culture.
- 22 Next, even if the Regional Law be capable of affecting indirectly the operation of a common organization of the agricultural markets, it is not in dispute that, the park having been created to protect and enhance the value of the environment and the cultural heritage of the area concerned, the Regional Law pursues objectives other than those covered by the common agricultural policy, or that the Law itself is general in character.

(implements EU law, and therefore) must treatment by

The “Scope”

If a party requests you to raise a preliminary question, inquire what norm of EU law is decisive in the case.

If the party points to the Charter, inquire –

- what OTHER norm of EU law applies to the case, or at least
- which domestic measure that the party wants set aside comes within the scope of OTHER norms of EU law.

Use the Siragusa checklist first, and be aware of the expansive force of EU law (you can breach it by exercising exclusive MS competences)

Good luck!

Personal scope of application: Bauer and Max-Plank: horizontal direct effect

3 main arguments:

- 1) 'The fact that certain provisions of primary law are addressed principally to the Member States does not preclude their application to relations between individuals' (borrowed from Defrenne II, yet ...)
- 2) Article 51 did not prevent the case law on the horizontal direct effect of Article 21(1) of the Charter ....
- 3) 'the right of every worker to paid annual leave entails, by its very nature, a corresponding obligation on the employer, which is to grant such periods of paid leave'.

Cresco Investigation (C-193/17)

- Directive 2000/78 + Article 21(1) Charter
- a) Compatibility with EU law of the Austrian legislation granting a day's holiday on Good Friday only to employees who are members of some minority religions;
- b) Consequences in a horizontal dispute: not merely setting aside incompatible national law but 'levelling up' mechanism

